False HONOUR, Public and Private.

TRUE Honour is an Attachment to honeſt and beneficent Principles, and a good Reputation; and prompts a Man to do Good to others, and indeed to all Men, at his own Coſt, Pains, or Peril. False Honour is a Pretence to this Character, but does Things that deſtroy it; and the Abuſe of Honour is called Honour by thoſe who, from that good Word, borrow Credit, to act baſely, raſhly, or fooliſhly.

A Man cannot act honourably in a bad Cauſe: That he thinks it a good Cauſe, is not a good Excuſe; for Folly and Miſtake are not Honour: Nor is it a better Excuſe, that he is engaged in it, and has pledged his Faith to ſupport it, and act for it; for this is to engage his Honour againſt Honour, and to inliſt his Honour in a War againſt Truth. To ſay that he is aſhamed to deſert it, is to ſay, that he is aſhamed to do an honeſt Thing, and that he prefers falſe Shame to true Honour, which obliges the Man that poſſeſſes it to hate and break all criminal Engagements.

A good Conſcience, an honeſt Heart, and clean Hands, are inſeparable from true Honour; nor does true Honour teach any Man to act againſt his Judgment. It muſt be convinced before it acts, and mere Authority has no Weight with it. In human Matters, it does not conſider what is commanded, but what ought to be commanded; and before it executes an Injunction, inquires whether the ſame be rational and juſt. When ſuperior Orders are unjuſt, the Honour of Obedience is taken away; for Honour is not the Inſtrument of Evil. It is therefore falſe and pretended Honour, to execute and vindicate a bad Action by an unjuſt Command. Indeed no Command of any Conſequence ought to be obeyed, but what is or ought to be Law, and is not forbidden by any Law.

Falſe Honour has more Power over ſome Men than Laws have, and thoſe who deſpiſe all the Ties of Laws, of Religion and Humanity, are often very exact in obſerving all the fantaſtical and wicked Rules of falſe Honour. There are no Debts ſo punctually paid as thoſe contracted at Play, though there are expreſs Laws againſt Play, and againſt paying of Money won at Play; nay, it is penal to pay ſuch Debts. And yet thoſe, who are thus exact in paying to their own Ruin, and in Defiance of Law, whatever Debts they contract to avowed Sharpers, who are the Deſtruction of Families, I ſay, thoſe Men, thus exact in Unrighteouſneſs and their own Wrong, will run in Debt to honeſt Tradeſmen, and, unconcerned, ſee them broke, impriſoned and undone, for want of ſuch Payment. So lawleſsly juſt are they, to thoſe who ruin them, and ſo barbarouſly unjuſt to induſtrious and credulous Men, who feed and clothe them.

The Honour and bona fide of ſome Princes, have been of that odd and unprincely Contexture, that they were never once reſtrained by the ſame, from deceiving, plaguing, invading, robbing, and uſurping upon their Neighbours, and doing Things which would have entitled a plain Subject to the Gibbet. Their Honour ſeems to have been deeply concerned to have no Honour: and though their Faith was engaged to protect their Subjects; yet their Honour, on the other Side, was engaged to pillage and enſlave them. And here grew the royal War of Honour againſt Faith and Equity!

How many peaceable Nations have been robbed, how many Millions of Innocents butchered, put of mere Honour? This Honour is indeed ſo wild, miſchievous, and extravagant, that Words, the moſt warm and ſignificant Words, fail in deſcribing it. I ſhall therefore ſubjoin a few Inſtances of its Spirit.

His Grace, Villiers, firſt Duke of Buckingham, engaged his Country in two mad Wars at once with the two greateſt Powers in Europe, becauſe his Honour had ſuffered a Rebuff in his Attempts to debauch two great foreign Ladies Europe was to be embroiled; Lives, Treaſure, and the Safety of Kingdoms to be riſked and thrown away, to vindicate, forſooth, his Grace's debauched Honour!

Cambyſes, to revenge an Affront put upon his Father many Years before by an Egyptian King, in the Buſineſs of ſending him a Wife, involved the World in a Flame of War; and at the Expence perhaps of Millions of Lives, and the Deſtruction of Kingdoms, did at laſt heroically vindicate his Father's Honour and his own, upon the Bones of a dead King, whom he cauſed to be dug up, and, after many Indignities, caſt them into the Fire.

White Elephants are rare in Nature, and ſo greatly valued in the Indies, that the King of Pegu, hearing that the King of Siam had got two, ſent an Embaſſy in Form, to deſire one of them of his Royal Brother, at any Price: But being refuſed, he thought his Honour concerned to wage War for ſo great an Affront. So he entered Siam with a vaſt Army, and with the Loſs of Five Hundred Thouſand of his own Men, and the Deſtruction of as many of the Siameſes, he made himſelf Maſter of the Elephant, and retrieved his Honour.

Darius (I think it was Darius the Mede) found his Honour concerned to chaſtiſe the Scythians, for having invaded Aſia a Hundred and Thirty Years before; and loſt a great Army to vindicate his Honour which yet was not vindicated; that is, he miſſed the white Elephant. For,

In ſhort, Honour and Victory are generally no more than white Elephants; and for white Elephants the moſt deſtructive Wars have been often made. BENEVOLUS.

SAVANNAH, (in Georgia) MARCH 17.

LAST week arrived from England, the Rev. Mr. Eccles, and from Charles-Town, where he frequently preached in the New England meeting, and was always followed by very great crowds, the Revd. Mr. Percy; they are both ministers of the established church, and went immediately to the Orphan-house, now called Lady Huntingdon's College, of which the latter is appointed President, several students all from England, and preachers, having arrived some time ago.

By a vessel from New-Providence we learn, that some misunderstanding having arisen betwixt the traders at Turks-Island and the Custom-house lately established there, a detachment of soldiers had, in consequence thereof, sailed on board his Majesty's armed schooner St. Lawrence for that place.

Last Saturday his Excellency the Governor was pleased to adjourn the General Assembly of this province till the 8th of June next.

Rice is now selling here at 9s. and 9s. 6d. the 100 lb.

From a Liverpoole news-paper of the 29th of January last, we have the following intelligence, viz.

LONDON, JANUARY 26.

Yesterday a courier set out with dispatches for the English Ambassador at Madrid. It is said he is charged with particular orders to bring a categorical answer to this serious demand, For what cause such vast preparations are at this time making by that power?

We are informed that a great Sea Commander will soon go on a considerable naval expedition to the coast of Africa.

Private letters from Portugal mention, that some very extraordinary dispatches had been received from Madrid, which required an immediate answer.

We have advice, by a person from Gibraltar, that a Russian and a French man of war have had an engagement in the Mediterranean, and after an hour's contest the latter was set on fire, and the flames reaching the magazine, the Frenchman blew up, and all on board perished.

By advices from Paris we learn, that the French Consuls at Tunis, Tripoli, Tetuan and Algiers have lately been recalled.

It is asserted that an Ambassador at the Court of Madrid has desired to be recalled.

A stop was put to the receiving of Portugal money at the Bank, by order of Government the 21st instant.

They write from Paris that the French Ambassador at the Court of Warsaw has received orders to return immediately.

They write from the Hague that several Polish Noblemen have lately arrived there in their way to England.

By a private letter from Paris, and from a person of good credit and intelligence here, we are informed that an affair has just happened, which makes great noise about the Court, and will soon no doubt do the same all over the kingdom; this is no less than a violent quarrel between the Prime-Minister, the Duke d'Aiguillon, and the Chancellor of France, in which the former drew his sword on the latter, and attempted to run him thro' the body. Farther particulars are not mentioned, except that the fray happened in the Duke's house or closet, and has raised a great bustle, and will probably be attended with some extraordinary change or consequences.

BERLIN, January 12. On Sunday last the marriage of the Landgrave of Hesse Cassel with the Princess Philipine of Schwedt was celebrated in the great apartments of the palace. The ceremony began a little after seven, and lasted till near seven.

HAMBURGH, January 15. They write from Mittau, that the Duke Ernest John, Duke of Courland, died there the 28th of last month, aged 83 years.

To have his Interest in one Place, viz.

A Very valuable Tract of 1000 Acres of Land, situate in Prince William's Parish, between Combahee and Port-Royal Ferries, having on it a Sufficiency of choice high Land for two profitable Indico Plantations; between which Two Hundred and Fifty Barrels of Rice may be made in a Year, as Ground to yield that Quantity of Barrels can be flowed with Water:—No Part of it was ever planted, but Sixty or Eighty Acres are cleared to begin one Plantation, FRESH and NEW, and therefore the BETTER and CHEAPER. It is esteemed as fine a Tract for its Size as most in the Province, the up Land being high, so that Land Floods can never hurt the Crops of Indico and Corn thereon planted:——The Purchaser, from the Red-Oak Trees that must unavoidable come down, in order to his making his Fields, may strip a vast Number of Cords of Bark.

So complete a Tract as this, and of the like Distance from Charles-Town, is very rarely to be found for Sale; which would require no Recommendation, if a View by every one in Want of such could be taken of it, and which, considering the high Price of good Lands, will be sold cheap.——It pays no Quit-Rents, being Part of the Right Lands included in Thomas Lowndes's Grant; and, as 'tis too late in the Season to prepare for Planting for the ensuing Crop, the Purchaser's Bond shall not carry Interest 'till Six Months from the Date are elapsed.

A delightful RETREAT,

Eight Miles by Land or Water from Town, known to be as well situated for Pleasantness and Agreeableness of Prospect as most Seats in the Province; on which, open to several Parts of that beautiful River, Ashley River, stands an elegant House, with handsome commodious Offices.

With which will be SOLD,

The large Quantity of very genteel Furniture

Now in the said House.

A very easy and desirable Distance for a Carriage and Four or Six Horses, as a Gentleman may come to his Business in Town in the Morning, and return to his Family in the Evening.—— The Inconvenience of not having such a Place for a Family, is at all Times great, and much more so, when contagious Disorders rage in the Metropolis, or those few Months in the Year arrive, so destructive to Infants kept in Town.

It contains Three Hundred Acres of Land, and is allowed to have the best Pasture in the Neighbourhood (having kept all the Cattle thereabouts in good Condition for several Years past) of which Two Hundred Acres are now inclosed with a strong new Fence, as is also a Meadow for making Hay; has great Plenty of Fencing and Fire-Wood Trees, and, by a Gentleman having a Turn that Way, may be made a Place of some Profit as well as Pleasure, as good Crops of Corn have been made on it, and one Year, when planted with that Grain, Sixty Barrels of Rice; but what can be more Profitable to grow on it than the Grass it luxuriantly bears, as HAY (made with a very few Hands) is an Article of so great Demand in Town, and never sells for less than Ten Pounds per Thousand Weight, although often near One-Third Brambles.——It may be viewed at any Time.

His Two HOUSES in Town;

The one on the Corner of the Bay, near the Exchange, and the other adjoining, in Broad-Street, which (and that very low) rents for £. 960 per Annum, and are so advantageously situated for Trade, as will never be untenated;—besides which Advantage, it is well known these Houses were not built as those which are intended to be Lett, no Cost nor Pains being spared in getting the Materials the best of their Kind, which were put together in the most faithful and neatest Manner:—The Wood Materials are of the best of Yellow Pine and Black Cypress, and the Mortar made of Fresh-Water River Gravel, so strong a Cement as that none of the Tiles in the Great Hurricane 1752, were blown off, whilst the Roofs of most of the Houses tiled or slated were entirely uncovered thereby.

It has been often desired that the Corner House should be made a COFFEE-HOUSE,—£. 1050 a Year Rent will be insured, but there is no Doubt that £. 1100 can be got for them, as the Rents were never increased since the Building of the Exchange, as should be.—The Terms to the Purchaser shall be made as convenient as they can desire.——Please to apply to

A MIRROR,

Proper to be looked into by the preſent Generation.

The Folly of Intemperance, a genuine Hiſtory.

Could young Men ſee with gouty old Mens Eyes,
They'd Health above all other Bleſſings prize,

NO perſon can enjoy the bleſſing of a good conſtitution without being ſenſible of the ineſtimable jewel he poſſeſſes, yet many proſtitute their health ſhamefully, by ſeeking for pleaſure in the paths of exceſs, that it would induce me to think they had taken a leaſe of life, and might ſafely put diſeaſe at defiance.

I have often ſmiled at the expreſſion of a publican, whoſe company was greatly courted by his cuſtomers on account of his oddities, which obliged him frequently to drink more than he was inclined to do, this made him declare that he was obliged to kill himſelf in order to live. His obſervation was verified in the ſequel, for by the time he had acquired a competent fortune, he fell a martyr to Arrack punch, and the very beſt Madera.

Intemperance may be conſidered as a maſter of the ceremonies, who artfully inſinuates himſelf into your good graces, fires your paſſions, engages your affections, and very politely hands you to that ſolemn drawing-room the grave.

Frederick Frankley was born to an affluent fortune, and fully poſſeſſed every bounty nature could beſtow. He was amiable in his perſon, engaging in his manners, and ſeemed to be bleſſed with a conſtitution that could afford no very pleaſing proſpect to the medical tribe, ſince it gave no promiſe of having any occaſion to call in the aſſiſtance of the ſons of Eſculapius.

When he came of age, being warm in his paſſions, he was determined to indulge himſelf in every pleaſure that ſenſation could prompt him to purſue, or caprice excite him to enjoy: He accordingly was a conſtant votary at the temple of Bacchus, and frequently ſacrificed at the ſhrine of the jolly God. To keep it up, was a text he would feelingly expatiate upon; and, contrary to the examples of moſt preachers, he always practiſed as he preached, for he kept it up ſo often, that bloody noſes, black eyes, broken ſhins, and bruiſes all over his body, nay very often a ſevere fever, were poſitive teſtimonies of the fervency of his devotion to the tottering deity.

I do not recollect to have heard that the ſun ever gave him any particular offence; however he very ſeldom choſe to look him in the face. But for this want of affection in the ſun he made up in an uncommon fondneſs for the moon, who was ſo obliging as frequently to light him home when his own luminaries were almoſt in eclipſe; and many a time hath the pale Goddeſs of night lengthened the ſhadow of our reeling Bacchanal upon the ſilent pavement, when the whole town, except the hundreds of Drury, was ſunk into the arms of Morpheus, and temporary oblivion.

Nor was Mr. Frankley inſenſible to the charms of beauty. No, Cupid tranſacted a great deal of buſineſs with him, for ſeldom a night paſſed but he fell deſperately in love; and many times have a Lucy Cooper, Fanny Hill, and other Ladies of diſpoſitions equally benignant, kindly taken upon them the office of phyſicians, and humanely cured him of that diſorder which enters at the eyes and furiouſly proceeds to the ſeats of ſenſation.

Nay, he had an ingenious method of indulging himſelf with artificial ecſtacies, and enjoying the greateſt beauties by proxy, for if he met with a lady who had got Platonic notions in her head, and was conſequently conſcientiouſly virtuous, and obſtinately prudent, he never thought of hanging or drowning, but immediately repaired to ſome of thoſe females who profeſs univerſal benevolence, and in their arms, with the aſſiſtance of imagination, rapturouſly enjoyed the abſent coy one.

Indeed reaſon would now and then take the liberty to intrude upon his vacant hours, and inform him that inebriety, late hours, diſſipation, and continual debauchery, would bring on a premature old age, and greatly tend to ſhorten the time of his mortal exiſtence. To this ſage advice he conſtantly anſwered, that his conſtitution was too good to be impaired by the trifling pleaſures in which he indulged himſelf; that he did not only breathe, but enjoyed life, that as life was but a ſpan, he would fill it to his own ſatisfaction. He would then very obligingly entertain madam Reaſon with a ſong; beginning,

"With Women and Wine I'll defy every Care,
For Life without theſe is a Bubble of Air."

Reaſon finding her arguments in vain, thought proper to withdraw, and never diſobliged him any more with her admonitions.

If any of his friends attempted to prove logically, or rationally, that hard drinking and late hours were pernicious to health, he would very bluntly anſwer in the the words of Churchill,

"Wound up at twelve at noon, your clock goes right;
Mine better goes, wound up at twelve at night."

The ſhaking hand, the aching head, and naufeating ſtomach, all warned him in vain; the laſſitude of the morning was loſt in the conviviality of the evening; and debilitation ſtared him in the face without any effect.

Mr. Frankley was in the caſe of Sovereigns, who depend upon Miniſters that flatter the paſſions of their maſters in order to betray their intereſt. Thus Mr. Frankley depended upon conſtitution, and fancied it would never deceive him; but the age of thirty-three opened his eyes, and he found himſelf a young man with every ſenſe impaired, and his whole frame emaciated.

He was fond of ſinging, but the weakneſs of his lungs prevented him from gratifying his vanity in diſplaying his harmonious talents.

He was fond of ſpeaking upon any ſubject that was ſtarted in company, but an obſtinate aſthma denied him the pleaſure of harranguing; for the tickling rheum frequently broke in upon the fineſt turned period, and when his arguments would have flaſhed conviction upon the auditors, the cauſe has been given againſt him by the intervention of an unfortunate cough.

He had a paſſion for muſick, but through his intemperance an habitual deafneſs had attacked him, ſo that the fineſt diſpoſition of Handel no longer ſoothed his anxious breaſt.

His eyes ſuffered a ſevere defluxion juſt before the exhibition of paintings by the ſociety of artiſts. This he conſidered as a great misfortune, for he was eſteemed a great connoiſſeur. No appeal was ever made from his deciſion; but now it was impoſſible for him to deſcant upon diſpoſition and attitude, to criticiſe the drapery, to regulate the features of the face, or mellow the colours to a proper modification and conſiſtency.

Our worn out rake had another misfortune: he happened to fall deſperately in love with an amiable young lady, not according to his common mode of loving, but ſentimentally; the lady politely received his addreſſes, and by the aſſiſtance of friends a match was concluded on. Juſt before the ceremony, a ball was given on the nuptials of a friend. Mr. Frankley could not refuſe to accompany his miſtreſs, and to give her his hand in the dance; but, unluckily for him, he was on the very morning of that day attacked by a fit of the gout. His pride would not permit him to confeſs his recent affliction, and he hobbled a minute ſo ungracefully, that he became the ridicule of the whole company. This laugh at his expence touched the ſenſibility of his miſtreſs ſo much, that, not having any real affection for him, ſhe broke off that match, declaring ſhe would never be wedded to ſuch an aukward thing.

The rheumatiſm paying him a viſit ſoon after, he determined to call in a phyſician to his aſſiſtance. The learned pulſe feeler gravely told him that he was very bad; a truth that he was too well acquainted with, before that gentleman made his appearance. However, the learned mender of decayed conſtitutions, ſecundam artem, ſagaciouſly applied his cane to his noſe, to aſſiſt his profound meditations; and in about five minutes, ſtarting from his reverie, he haſtily ſcribbled a preſcription, in conſequence of which, Mr. Frankley ſwallowed ſix very diſagreeable draughts, without receiving any benefit in the diſorder with which he was afflicted, which was of too obſtinate a nature to be eaſily routed, and ſeemed determined to keep its ground with reſolution. In this ſituation, a ſharp conteſt enſued between the allied ſons of medicine, and a complication of diſorders on the other; when the ſeat of war, Mr. Frankley's emaciated carcaſe, ſuffered greatly in the ſkirmiſh, he having too late diſcovered that phyſicians, like tinkers, generally mar more than they mend.

The blunders of phyſicians were indeed inſupportable; for if he employed them to cure one diſorder they were ſure to make a deſperate attack upon another, agreeable to the words of Pomfret,

——The blundering Sloane,
Miſſing the gout, hath often hit the ſtone;
The patient does the happy error find,
He works a cure, but not the cure deſigned.

Mr. Frankley having once thought of matrimony, could not divert himſelf from the idea; he accordingly married to gratify his inclination, and his ſpouſe finding that ſhe was wedded to diſeaſe, and bound in duty to be a nurſe during his life, conſoled herſelf with ſome amuſements which excited the jealouſy of the huſband, who too late found he had married, when through his exceſſes he was incapable of being a huſband. He at length fell a victim to the effects of his juvenile intemperance and domeſtic vexation, and died an extreme old man at the age of thirty-ſix.

A modern HEAD-DRESS.

WHAT looſe and unjuſt accuſations we find
Ariſe from the Malice and ſpleen of mankind!
One would hope, my dear mother, that ſcandel would ſpare
The tender, the helpleſs, and delicate fair;
But alas! the ſweet creatures all find it the caſe,
That this is a very cenſorious place.
Would you think that a perſon I met ſince I came,
(I hope you'll excuſe my concealing his name)
A ſpenetic ill-natur'd fellow, before
A room full of very good company ſwore,
That, in ſpight of appearance, 'twas very well known,
Their hair and their faces were none of their own;
And thus without wit, or the leaſt provocation,
Began an impertinent formal oration;
'Shall Nature thus laviſh her beauties in vain
For art and unneceſſical faſhion to ſtain?
The fair Jezebells what art can adorn,
Whoſe cheeks are like roſes that bluſh in the morn?
As bright were her locks as in heaven are ſeen,
Preſented for ſtars by th' Egyptian Queen;
But alas! the ſweet nymph they no longer muſt deck,
No more ſhall they flow e'er her ivory neck;
Some runaway valet, ſome outlandiſh ſhaver
Has ſpoil'd all the honours that Nature has gave her;
Her head has he robb'd with as little remorſe
As a fox hunter crops both his dogs and his horſe;
A wretch that, ſo far from repenting his theft,
Makes a boaſt of tormenting the little that's left;
And firſt at her porcupine head he begins
To fumble and poke with his irons and pins,
Then fires all his crackers with horrid grimace,
And puffs his vile Rocambol breath in her face,
Diſcharging a ſteam that the Devil would choak,
From paper, pomatum, from powder, and ſmoke;
The patient ſubmits, and with due reſignation
Prepares for her fate in the next operation.
When lo! on a ſudden, a monſter appears,
A horrible monſter to cover her ears;
What ſign of the zodiac is it he bears?
Is it Taurus's tail, or the Tete de Mouton,
Or the beard of the goat, that he dares to put on?
'Tis a wig en vergette, that from Paris was brought
Un Tete comme il faut, that the varlet has bought
Of a beggar, whoſe head he has ſhav'd for a groat;
Now fix'd to her head does he frizzle and dab it,
Her foretop's no more.—'Tis the ſkin of a rabbit.—
'Tis a muff.—'Tis a thing that by all is confeſs'd,
Is in colour and ſhape like a chaffinch's neſt.

'O ceaſe, ye fair virgins, ſuch pains to employ,
The beauties of nature with art to deſtroy;
See Venus lament, ſee the loves and the graces,
How they pine at the injury done to your faces!
Ye have ears, lips, and noſes, but your heads are no more
Than a doll's that is plac'd at a milliner's door.——

I'm aſham'd to repeat what he ſaid in the ſequel
Aſperſions ſo cruel that nothing can equal!
I declare I am ſhock'd ſuch a fellow ſhould rex,
And ſpread all theſe lies of the innocent ſex.
For whom, while I live, I will make proteſtation
I've the higheſt eſteem and profound veneration;
I never ſo ſtrange an opinion will harbour,
That they buy all the hair they have got of a barber;
Nor even believe that ſuch beautiful creatures
Can have any delight in abuſing their features.
But, if all I muſt write, I ſhould never have done;
So myſelf I ſubſcribe your moſt dutiful ſon.

To the CURIOUS.

Juſt arrived from LONDON,

And is to be ſeen at JAMES SNEAD'S, Turner, in METTING-STREET, from Nine in the Morning till Six in the Evening.

ADMITTANCE for each Perſon TWENTY SHILLINGS.

That Wonderful, Surpriſing, Unparalleled

NATURAL CURIOSITY,

CONSISTING of Twelve ſurpriſing PICTURES, which were the genuine Productions of Nature in Walnut-Trees. This Curioſity was ſawed accidentally out of the large Spur Root of the Tree, in the City of Hereford in England, as the ſawyers were ordered to ſaw the Root of the Tree into thin Boards, every Board that came from the Saw had the true Picture or the Portrait of Men's Buſts in Profile, as large as the Life, and every Feature in juſt Proportion, with a perfect Repreſentation of the Hair on the Heads and Beards, differing in their Likeneſs from Youth to old Age; requiring no co-operating Fancy, but ſtriking powerfully and at once, in the ſame Manner that other Pictures do.

The Proprietor has had the Honour of ſhewing them to His Majeſty King GEORGE III. and the Reſt of the Royal Family, as may be ſeen by a Certificate granted at the Palace of Kew. He has likewiſe had the Honour of ſhewing them at the Univerſities of Oxford and Cambridge, and to moſt of the Nobility in the Kingdom, who gave them great Applauſe; and ſince they arrived here, has had the Honour of ſhewing them to his Excellency the Governor, his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, their Ladies, and many other Ladies and Gentlemen of Diſtinction, who have expreſſed their greateſt Satisfaction.

Copy of Dr. DEMAINBRAY'S Certificate.

"THESE are to Certify, That I had the Honour of ſhewing to His preſent Majeſty, and the Reſt of the Royal Family, Mr. ROBERT SNEAD'S Twelve Pictures, delineated by Nature in Wood, which are undoubtedly one of the greateſt Curioſities in Natural Hiſtory that can be ſeen, as the Luſus Naturæ in them equals the Pencil of the greateſt Artiſt, and their Beauty is in general far ſuperiour to what I have ſeen in any Muſeum, either in theſe Kingdoms or abroad. (Signed)

STEPHEN DEMAINBRAY, LL. D.
Teacher of Philoſophy and of Natural Hiſtory to the R. Family."

N. B. GENTLEMEN or LADIES may ſee them at their own Houſes, by giving a Day's Notice.

 To remove any Doubts (if ſuch have ariſen) of theſe Pictures being done by the Hand of Nature, and that they are coloured or ſtained, the Proprietor, to convince the World of their being GENUINE, gives this Notice,—That any Perſon may try upon them all Arts that can be found, to take out Stains.——The Proprietor gave the ſame Notice for Five Years in London.

☞ The above will continue to be ſhewn in Charles-Town 7 Days from this Time, and no longer.
